The Great Plains Tribal Leaders Health Board mission is to improve the wellness of our people by providing quality healthcare, public health services, advocacy, and support in partnership with the tribal nations of the Great Plains area.

Richard Mousseau (Oglala Sioux) serves as the Program Coordinator of the Community Health Prevention Programs. He has promoted health care advocacy and health support for American Indians in the Great Plains region for over 16 years.

Kelley Le Beau (Cheyenne River Sioux) is the Program Manager for the Honor Every Women/Great Plains Breast and Cervical Cancer early Detection Program. She has over 15 years of working in areas of mental health, hospice care, and health care research.

Gina Johnson (Oglala Sioux) serves as a Program Manager for the Palliative Care – Living Well with Serious Illness, Approaches to COVID-19 Testing, and Stand Up to Cancer Projects. She has been working in public health for over 10 years.
