

Celebrating Diversity and Inclusion: World Health Day 2020

Today we celebrate our nurses, LPNs, and MAs who bring their diverse backgrounds and limitless passion to the forefront of the COVID-19 pandemic. We are honored to serve with you and are forever in awe of your strength.

“This World Health Day, we honor the contribution of nurses and midwives, recognizing their vital role in keeping the world healthy. Nurses and other health workers are at the frontlines of COVID-19 response, putting their own health at risk to protect the broader community. Comprising more than two-thirds of the health workforce in the WHO Western Pacific Region, nurses are critical in responding to health needs in all settings and across the lifespan. In the 2020 International Year of the Nurse and the Midwife, the World Health Day is an opportunity to highlight the work of nursing and midwifery around the world, while celebrating this workforce as one of the most valuable resources of every country.” – World Health Organization

“Real heroes don’t wear capes. They wear scrubs and work in clinics and hospitals and are called Nurses. Thanks for being our Batman!” Dr. Rutherford

“Thank you, you are greatly appreciated” Dr. Jean

“You are the GPS to our car. Without you, we’d be sending males for pregnancy tests. You’re the support we can’t work without!” Dr. Rutherford

“Nurses: the magic that makes medicine possible” Dr. Bybee

“Residency would be unbearable without you! Thank you for all you do to provide great care to our patients.” Dr. Barbour

“Nurses are the “care” in healthcare!” Dr. Veaco

“Nurses: taking care of patients and doctors since the beginning of time.” Dr. Ambereen Ahmed

“Thank you for being our back bone!” Dr. Javaherian

“Thank you for doing such a good job of caring for our patients. We appreciate you.” Dr. Moedano

“Thanks for all the support and hard work caring for the people we serve. We absolutely could not do it without you.” Dr. McEvoy

“Thank you for always being the first hands on deck. You are the true frontline! You are appreciated!” Dr. Mitra

- Alvernon Family Medicine Residents